WANTED—Two reliable traveling salesmen in each state; permanent position; salary and expenses; experience not absolutely essential. Address: Carolina Tobacco Works Greensboro, N. C. 9-14

A young Maine girl while in Chicago rode twice on the street railway without paying her fare. After two years she became conscience stricken and enclosed the president of the company ten cents in stamps.

The Methodists at Myers are going to erect a ten thousand dollar church building in the near future. Mr. H. O'Neill, the wealthy New York merchant, contributed five thousand dollars toward the erection of the new building.

"I had a running sore on my leg for seven years," writes Mrs. Jas. Forest of Chippewa Falls, Wis., "and spent hundreds of dollars in trying to get it healed. Two boxes of Banner Salve entirely cured it." No other salve so healing.

The Martel correspondent of the Times-Union and Citizen says that Rev. T. S. Armistead has made a good impression on the people of that section and is a preacher of ability, and that Rev. Ira S. Patterson, the new presiding elder, has charmed everybody by his soul-stirring and eloquent sermons.

Mr. Scriven McDonald, about forty years of age, died last Tuesday night of pneumonia and was buried Wednesday afternoon in the old cemetery. Rev. Howard Dutil performing the last sad rites. Mr. McDonald came here from Ware county, Georgia, and had been in the vicinity for the past fifteen years. At the time of his death he was lawyer for Mr. B. H. Seymour.

Mr. J. W. Patterson, night police at Nashua, Ia., says: "In January I had a very bad cold on my lungs, and used half a dozen different cough medicines and prescriptions from two doctors, but grew worse all the time. I finally bought a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar, and after using two-thirds of it I was entirely cured." Anti-Monopoly Drug Store.

A correspondent asks us what constitutes the convict trust and answers himself as follows: "A combination of men agreeing upon a certain price for the lease of the convicts who have committed crimes against the peace and dignity of the state."

Hon. A. S. Mann, formerly senator from Hernando county, was in Ocala Monday and honored us with a friendly call. For some years Senator Mann has made his home in Tennessee but has again declared his allegiance to Florida. He is pushing and progressive and always commands success.

Ocala is enjoying a visit from Dr. O. W. Weeks, of Marion, Ohio. He is accompanied by his wife. The doctor is contributing a very interesting series of letters to the Marion Daily Mirror. He is very much delighted with our climate and sees a great future for Florida.

"Snap Shot" in the Cordell Farmer and Miners' Journal, says that the Pine Level Southern Institute closed its annual session last Tuesday night. The closing exercises were grand, in which the students took an active part. After the entertainment the young and old enjoyed a candy pulling and a dance.

Dr. E. Van Hood returned last Saturday from Havana, where he went to attend the Pan-American Medical Association. He also spent a few weeks in Fort Pierce visiting his sister. Dr. Hood will leave in a few weeks for New York to take his annual course of lectures. The report of the doctor's marriage was a false one.

Mr. John S. McFall was nominated by Mayor Wing last Monday night tax collector for the city of Tampa. He was confirmed by a vote of seven to four. Marion county seems to be well in the saddle in Tampa: Ex-Mayor Solomonson, ex-Mayor Gillette, Hon. Frank M. Simonson, Mr. John S. McFall and Mr. Wallace Stovall, editor of the Tribune, are all the fruit of Marion county vintage. And "there are others" in Tampa from Marion who will come to the top. Marion feels proud of her own.

The Bucki Lumber Mills at Jacksonville are again in operation, and over 600 men are employed at the mills and in the woods cutting the timber. The Bucki lumber plant is a double mill, with a capacity of 100,000 feet a day, and Mr. Bucki is negotiating for a log supply to run the mill for a number of years. A company is being organized to run the plant, which will soon be in operation. The planing mill and turning mill will be started this week. Shipments of lumber have already commenced.

Mr. J. O. LaFontisee, formerly city editor of the Gainesville Sun, was in Ocala last Wednesday. Mr. LaFontisee resigned his position on the Sun to enlist as a private soldier in the Spanish-American war but received promotion before the termination of hostilities. He is now holding an important position on the Daily Post, the only American newspaper printed in Havana. He says the paper is steadily gaining in popularity, and a large number of Spaniards and Cubans are among its list of patrons. He says whether Cuba becomes an independent republic or is annexed to the United States, the Post is there to stay. Mr. LaFontisee will return to Cuba in a short while.

Money Crops Grown With Brains.

There is a laconism of Miles on humor and bucolic philosophy combined in the saying that "the pig is the gentleman that pays the rent." The orange was the yellow-hued Chinese fairy that paid the mortgage. The tragedy of the situation consisted in the fact that there should be a mortgage, for a mortgage is a cancer and a cancer seizes upon system only when the blood is fevered and distempered with riotous living. The orange paid for the barrel of Pillsbury's best, for the Chicago porterhouse steak, and for the mortgage; but what did the mortgage pay for? It paid for the land, to carry another mortgage, to pay for more land.

Then came the Last Days of the Florida mortgage (a la Bulwer). As the rich and luxurious lowland provinces of the orange belt lay wrapt in the peaceful slumber which descends upon the Floridian, whether mortgage or mortgagee, the volcanic ashes of Dakota rained all night upon the earth, and in the morning the mortgage took the stumps. The cycle of the orange, for the time being, had terminated, and the cycle of the pig was introduced.

We have been at considerable pains to collate authentic instances of some things which can be done as well as other things, and which have been done, but always without a mortgage—some of them before the orange industry was disturbed, when prices were high but transportation facilities nowhere near equal to those of the present times.

An Orange County farmer shipped a part of his surplus sweet potatoes to Worcester, Mass., sold them at $5.50 a barrel. They were not such as Floridians prefer, however.

Some Bradford County farmers clubbed together and sent a bushel crate of strawberries to Boston, where it sold for $60.62.

A Brevard County farmer sold fruit and plants from two acres of pineapples, amounting to $1,400 in one season. Orange County farmers sold not a few pines at 75 cents to $1 each at home.

An Orange County farmer shipped oranges to New York which sold at 9 1/4 cents each wholesale.

An Alachua county grower sold $10,000 worth of cabbage from forty acres.

A Putnam County farmer's wife, with some assistance from her husband, sold $700 to $1,000 worth of Jersey butter and bronze turkeys per year, with some grain feed, but only flatwoods pasture. This was since they lost their orange trees.

An Orange County farmer, raised with wood ashes alone, on poor pine land, onions at the rate of 1,000 bushels per acre.

An Orange County farmer sent to New York three crates of Japan persimmons, and received a check for $22.50. A widow in Polk County, in her slender possessions, had about a dozen persimmon trees, the fruit from which netted her about $80. This was since the freeze.

An Orange County farmer threshed a part of his peavine hay, and got twenty bushels of couch peas, which he sold at $3.50 per bushel. From several acres of cowpeas he sold the peas at $1.80 per bushel.

A Hillsboro County farmer planted twelve peach trees in January, and in sixteen months had all the fruit his family wanted, while it lasted and sold $10 worth.

An Orange County farmer shipped peaches to New York that sold at $20 per bushel.

A Gadsden County company raised several acres of covered tobacco, which had a cash value in New York City of $1,200 to $1,400 per acre, and the cost was not over $650 per acre. This was last year.

An Orange County lady sent 1,325 spikes of tuberoses bloom to one Northern city, and they sold for $132.50. She sent a good many to other cities.

A St. Johns County farmer, every year, raises from sixty to eighty barrels of potatoes per acre, and nets about $3 a barrel for the entire crop. Then he raises about thirty barrels per acre as fall crop, worth at least $2 a barrel.

About April 10 and Orange County farmer bought eleven hens and one cock. On August 1 they had raised four broods (37) of chickens and laid 751 eggs.

A Dade County farmer planted three acres of oranges, pomelos and guavas, and in three years from the bud he had sold about $200 worth of fruit, chiefly guavas, and had as much more in sight. Some of the pomelos were carrying two boxes, or at least $8 worth of fruit apiece.

A Polk County grower, this year, has pomelos five years old with at least $40 worth of fruit apiece (in boxes) on.

An Orange County farmer grew eighteen bushels of corn per acre on pine land without fertilizer, and sold his surplus at $1 a bushel.

A young man in Polk County raised five or six acres of velvet beans on thin pine land, borrowed $100, bought cattle, fattened them on the beans, and more than doubled his money, with very little labor.
